

Public note

Bruno Pedro

Friday, March 25, 2022

The API team manages APIs across their entire API lifecycle, including productization and, in some cases, monetization. API product managers are at the heart of managing, supporting, and optimizing the team's workflows—they are the engine that keeps the process of new releases, iteration, and customer obsession running. This requires understanding and implementing best practices and recommendations across each stage of the API lifecycle.

Found on The API Product Mindset on 2022-03-25 12:20:44.

Tags: #api #product-management #api-product-management #api-team